JUST SAY NO
CHRIS SKY
They have done everything they can to try and suppress me in this battle to restore our rights and freedoms, both in Canada and around the world. I've been charged and arrested multiple times in the last year.
My home was raided by dozens of police in the middle of the night without a warrant. My verified Instagram with nearly 250k followers was removed. My personal website www.realchrissky.com was attacked and taken down. My phone was mysteriously "disabled" before going live at the largest freedom rally in Calgary. And most recently, they tried to stop our freedom convoy that went from Vancouver across to the East Coast by slapping me with a bogus warrant so that they could arrest me on the day it was to start.
All of these attacks on me have been manouvers of desperation, and this shows me that the momentum is shifting in a big way...
I'm not going to give up. We're not going to give up.
There were HUNDREDS OF THOUSANDS of Canadians marching through the streets on Montreal with me in solidarity, to JUST SAY NO.
We need to keep pushing. Harder. Now is the time for us to make it absolutely clear that we do not accept what they are trying to implement.
Let's win this fight.

Canada’s favourite human rights advocate, Chris Saccoccia, a.k.a. Chris Sky, has publicly announced that he will be on the speaking circuit for the next few years.

Sky wasn’t allowed to speak at a Canada Day rally a few years ago. He was silenced. Now, he’s fighting back, with a global tour to condemn censorship, and promote viewpoint diversity.

Sky apparently has a new interest in his life, an international banker. That will definitely be worth keeping an eye on. Sky is reported to have bragged that he’ll end up being the Finance Minister some day. He may even become Prime Minister one day, if Twitter polls are at all reliable.

Recently, he privated his Instagram account, which was filled with compromising photos. Obviously, this was proof that he was being silenced.

CBC had requested an interview concerning Sky’s ongoing criminal court case. Sky declined, citing it as proof that he was being silenced.

Sky hit alternative outlets like Rebel Media and Raging Dissident to explain to the public how much he was being silenced.

He also took to Twitter, Instagram, YouTube, Facebook, and various other social media platforms to express how he was being silenced.

Furthermore, he’ll be flying around the country and speaking to international media figures in the coming months. He’s expected to outline in great detail how he’s being silenced.

Critics of lockdowns have complained that while Sky speaks a lot of truth, his behaviour and antics are quite a turn off to normies. Obviously, trying to make it look respectable is censorship.

Sky confirmed that he will be putting out his new book “The Sky’s The Limit”. He stated that Sky was a reference to Sky Homes, the residential construction empire run by his father, Art Saccoccia. It’s a touching salute to what dad has accomplished.

However, it’s unclear who will be authoring that book. Rumour has it that the ghostwriter of “Just Say No” is unavailable to take on new projects for now. The last pre-order “addition” was limited to 250 copies.

You’re doing God’s work, Chris.

Interesting. We aren’t all the same. If Chris is a showman by nature, I don’t care (although I’m not a fan of unclassy language and behavior), as long as he’s actually fighting the good fight. I’d ask him if he believes that there’s a Sars CoV 2 virus for starters. To me that’s a giveaway, even though some (James Corbett and Whtiney Webb) who I still respect highly and get lots of info from won’t clearly state what their position is in that regard. Del Bigtree lost me some time ago. Even so, I like that he fights for informed consent and health freedom generally.

There will be no more giving Chris Sky the benefit of the doubt by me and this is why:

This guy is a far cry from Canada’s favourite human rights advocate. He’s a loose cannon who seems to love publicity. Accuracy–not so much.

after seeing / hearing mister Soccaccia in person in Victoria BC on July 25 2021 I’m inclined to believe he’s been sent in as a ringer so as to lead the authentic populist Freedom movement, off into the weeds. Presenting his-self as the anti-politican, he spent 15 minutes of his hour, slagging Maxime Bernier and the People’s Party. After having promised the organizers of the EVENT that he would NOT get political

His handler on the scene – in full flowing Arabic robes – was the give-away. The man who went surety for him so the Real Chris Sky (c) trademark could make bail. Getting permission to leave the province while 5 serious criminal charges are hanging over the head of the Accused? IM possible.

his Negro thug culture dude Bro stage act is designed to repulse the ordinary white Canadian.
